Another Evening with Grumpy

by Brad Collins

On Saturday 7th the Cannich Hall rang out to the unmistakable sounds of Iain Scully. The event was well attended and from all accounts of those that were there it was a great night of fun, music and laughter.

The cause was the Glenurquhart Care Project which benefitted from the night to the tune of more than £570 so well done everyone, that is a great effort for such a small village.

Special thanks for the night to the SMG for helping to get it all organised and to the new Hall caretaker Gordon for acting as sound engineer.

Have you ever wondered?

by Donnie Stirling

Delivery drivers, first time postmen and others often question, when entering Tomich why the first house number is 24 and not number 1.

There were some of the buildings in the village that did not have numbers; shop, mill, hotel, etc. The man given the task of numbering the houses was my grandfather David Stirling.

The number plates were oval shaped white porcelain with black numbers. On reaching the first house; as you drive in to the village, my grandfather was about to fit the first when he realised this would mean he would be living in number 13. From what I can remember he didn't seem to be superstitious, but he put number 24 instead of number 1 on that first house. This meant that he would be living at number 12.

Little did he know that when Joyce and I got married his numbering meant our first home was number 13.

Another great night in the hall
